OF WISCONSIN

Just The Facts

WELCOME TO THE FEBRUARY 2022 ISSUE

At least 36 States have restricted education regarding bias, racism, and the contributions of specific racial or ethnic groups to U.S. history, while 17 States have worked to expand that education. How does this effect you as a law student? Take a look at the public news service article. Analyze what the law says!

Run into Your Career on Purpose

The Section listed below is seeking student liaisons to serve on their Section Boards. The student liaison position provides the opportunity to meet and interact with attorneys from all over the state and board meetings involve discussion of current issues and events in the practice area.

Business Law Section

The Business Law Section meets monthly and receives a legislative update at each board meeting. The student liaison would attend Board meetings which are held virtually. The Liaison will provide a brief informal report at meetings and may be asked to coordinate an event for Section members and law students interested in this field. The Liaison may have the opportunity to join Section committees and to participate in projects. Interested students should submit a statement of interest and resume by March 1 to Kara Olson at kolson@wisbar.org.
